

HUNDREDS DIE IN CYCLONE WHICH SWEEPS OMAHA, NEB., DESTROYING MANY BLOCKS

Two Distinct Storms Tear Their Way Through Nebraska's Metropolis, Leaving Ruin and Devastation.

SUBURBS SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES

Florence, Dundee, and East Omaha Nearly Wiped Out--Fires Start in the Shattered Buildings--Troops Rushed to Sad Scene.

Omaha, the chief city of Nebraska, storm-wrecked and fire-swept, was so effectively cut off from the rest of the world this forenoon that only meagre estimates of the death list could be obtained.

Brief dispatches flashed through by devious routes indicated that between one hundred and three hundred persons perished and hundreds of others were injured. Special trains and troops are being rushed to the scene. Property damage at Omaha will amount to hundreds of thousands.

Three Suburbs Destroyed.

The villages of Dundee, Dundee and Florence, suburbs of Omaha, were practically wiped out. Only the fact that a heavy rain fell for half an hour after the tornado saved the mass of wreckage and many dead bodies from being buried.

The Webster street telephone station contained a score or more girls and was one of the buildings struck by the storm. In a moment it was twisted and torn. Several of the girls were killed outright and many others were injured.

Mayor Dahlman of Omaha, wired Governor Moorehead, shortly after midnight for several militia companies to prevent the residences and the dead bodies from being looted. The governor left on a special train for the scene of the disaster shortly after two o'clock.

Omaha's suburbs suffered heavily from the storm.

In Six Other States.

Ralston, southwest of Omaha, was razed to the ground and a half score or more are dead. East Omaha, which felt the tail of the twister, reported houses demolished, but no lives lost.

Early last evening a series of equinoctial gales of varying intensity began sweeping through the Missouri valley and middle west, leaving ruin in their path. At least six states sustained heavy damage. Terre Haute, Indiana, reports a death list in that vicinity which may reach fifty. Towns in Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri were shaken.

Wire communication with Omaha was broken shortly after six o'clock last evening and since that time only a few dispatches came forth over roundabout routes. That the city and suburbs sustained great damage is certain. One of the dispatches received via Lincoln describes the path of the tornado as being "eight miles long and from four to six blocks wide."

Under Martial Law.

United States troops from Fort Omaha were immediately called out. It was said, and the stricken zone put under martial law.

The national Red Cross has volunteered its services for the injured and Governor Moorehead of Nebraska left Lincoln early today to personally assist in the relief work. Railroad bridges are being repaired and the train schedules demoralized.

Hysterical passengers arriving at Lincoln from Omaha, were unable to give any connected accounts of the disaster except to say that the residence portion of the city suffered most.

Report 200 Dead.

Omaha, Neb., (Bulletin) March 24.—(E. O. S. via long distance to Denver.)—Omaha and vicinity was swept by two distinct wind storms late yesterday afternoon. Both cyclones intensify, which spread death and destruction in their wake. Fire which broke out in many of the wrecked buildings added to the horrors.

At eight o'clock this morning the best authority available placed the number of dead between one and two hundred with not less than one hundred more seriously injured and probably three hundred more or less seriously hurt. Property damage will mount up into the hundreds of thousands.

The tornado swept in from the southwest and zig-zagged to the north-west portion of the city, leaving in its wake death and destruction from two to four blocks wide. Fire sprang up all over this area and added to the horror of the twister. Firemen were unable to respond to the numerous alarms and many houses were suffered to burn to the ground.

Soldiers on Scene.

The police were unable to properly protect the stricken district, and the soldiers from Fort Omaha were called out. The tornado section is now practically under martial law.

Omaha's suburbs suffered heavily from the storm. Ralston, southwest of Omaha, was leveled to the ground and half a score or more are dead. East Omaha, which felt the tail of the twister, reported houses demolished, but no lives lost.

Destroys Whole Blocks.

The worst damage was done and the largest toll of lives were exacted in the western part of Omaha and in the vicinity of 24th and Lake streets and from northeast to 16th and Blaney. This is the residence portion and the destruction wrought was well nigh appalling. Whole blocks of homes were picked up and dashed in to a shapeless mass. Street cars were hurled from the tracks and demolished.

A moving picture show at 24th and Lake was destroyed. Ten dead and eight wounded have thus far been removed from the ruins. About fifty persons were in the theatre at the time of the disaster and it is feared that most of these are buried in the debris.

Fires Follow Tornado.

Benis Park, one of the prettiest residence districts in Omaha, was razed to the ground, and fires dotted the park, completing the destructive work of the tornado.

Among the show places of the city which felt the effects of the storm was the Joslyn Castle. The roof was torn off and the trees and shrubbery uprooted. The convent of the Poor Clares at 29th and Hamilton streets was unroofed and the grounds were littered with debris. An unverified report says that the Sacred Heart academy at 36th and Bart streets was demolished.

Reports Are Meagre.

The storm so paralyzed the telegraph service that no reports of the disaster could be communicated to the outside world. The Omaha telegraph offices sent their Associated Press messages to Lincoln on an early morning train.

Early today Omaha presented a sorry spectacle as a result of the storm. From the Field Club, which is in the western part of the city, to the Carter Lake club, in the northeast extremity, is one mass of debris from two to six blocks wide. Federal soldiers from Fort Omaha assisted the police in keeping the looters and morbid curiosity-seekers at bay. The presence of the soldiers gives the city the appearance of being under martial law.

One hundred dead is a conservative estimate and that the damage of property will run up into the hundreds of thousands is certain.

On account of the appalling character of the catastrophe only a few names of the known dead and injured were available. The following is a list of the identified dead:

William Fisher, Mable McBride, Neils Larson, C. E. Copley, Walter Peterson, Sam Dengier, P. B. Harris and Mary Harris.

The injured were: Davis, dangerously injured, will die; George Duncan, advertising man, fatally hurt; Mrs. E. R. Van Deven, unconscious from blow on head; Ed and Edna Baggett, Chicago, badly hurt; Mrs. McBride, 4115 Farnum, injured by flying bricks; Mrs. Ben Gallagher, dangerously hurt; D. Daggett, head cut by flying glass; Charles Black and son bruised; E. W. Dixon, slight bruises; M. A. Hall, injured by flying planks; Mrs. Arthur Lavigne and baby, mortally injured; M. N. Hall, slightly hurt; W. H. McDonald, bad scalp wound; Mrs. Calpin, badly cut; Mrs. E. Sells, injured internally and gash in head; Little Sells, girl badly injured; Mrs. Griffin, serious internal injuries; Mrs. G. C. Swan, head badly cut; D. E. Baum, head cut, and ankle broken; Thomas McPherson, badly bruised and internally injured.

Killed in Pool Hall.

Between forty and fifty persons were killed in the wreck of a pool hall patronized by negroes.

The well-defined path of the storm ended at Carter Lake near the Missouri river, north of the city.

Fire broke out in the debris and wrecked buildings. Fires burned themselves out except in instances where flames were brought under control by volunteer bucket brigades.

The second storm swept across the Missouri river about 6:30 p. m., doing considerable damage in Council Bluffs. Figures compiled early today placed the number of known dead at Council Bluffs at nine, with a score injured.

A garage at 40th and Farnum streets was destroyed and a large strip of territory east of that corner was seriously damaged. The Illinois Central bridge over the Missouri river was destroyed.

Later Reports.

At noon reliable reports placed the number of dead in yesterday's tornado at 90, with 240 injured. More than 150 residences were destroyed and 250 5 were badly damaged.

The Western Union Telegraph company places the financial loss from the tornado at twelve million dollars and that more than 100 lives were lost. The mayor of Omaha places the loss of life at 200 and the injured at 700.

Governor Moorehead, Mayor Dahlman and Police Commissioner Ryder stated at noon today that at least 200 were killed in yesterday's storm here.

Governor Moorehead has issued orders for the mobilization of three companies of national guard troops from outside the city. The local companies already are assisting in the work of rescue. Morgues and hospitals were besieged all morning by friends and relatives of the dead and injured and others made frantic efforts to learn of the fate of loved ones.

Came From Southwest.

Lincoln, Neb., March 25.—Graphic stories of the disaster reached Lincoln on early morning trains from Omaha. Supt. Robinson of the county poor farm, where the first damage was done, described the situation as follows:

"The storm came upon us from the southwest. It was a black funnel-shaped cloud which blew down both of our barns and took the roof off the engine house. Pieces were blown off the roof of our sleeping rooms in two places, but fortunately no one has been hurt."

J. F. Traynor rushed home to find his house in ruins. His wife, her aunt, Mrs. Edward Baggett of Chicago, who is visiting with them, and his three children, were in the house, but only Mrs. Baggett was hurt. Mr. Traynor said:

"It came like a rushing and roaring torrent of water from the south and passed right by us to the street. I went to my office window immediately afterward and saw fires bursting forth from houses along the path of the storm. I could see five houses burning at once, three to the south, one southeast, and one east. It was an awe-inspiring sight that we will never be able to forget."

Village Is Swept.

(E. O. S. Bulletin) Yutan, Neb., March 24.—Ten persons are known to be dead and it is believed that the list will reach fifteen at Yutan, about thirty-five miles northwest of here, where the tornado, which later did such havoc at Omaha, first began its destructive work.

The known dead at Yutan are: Little son of Fred Heym, Henry Scheele, the baby of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ohm, A. R. Hammond, Mrs. A. R. Hammond and little son; Herman Starman, postmaster; Mrs. Dilster, Mrs. Will Babcock and little daughter, Mrs. W. H. Steinbach. Other deaths are reported.

President Wires Message.

Washington, March 24.—President Wilson telephoned Mayor James C. Dahlman of Omaha, as follows:

"I am deeply distressed at the news received from Nebraska. Can we help in any way?"

BUT FIFTEEN BILLS SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

No Measure of State Wide Significance Has Been Considered by the Executive as Yet.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 24.—Governor McGovern has signed fifteen bills. Scarcely a bill of state wide importance has been presented to him as yet for signature. Senate bill No. 168, E., which provides that when union free high schools are established they shall not be dissolved within four years has just been received executive approval. He has also signed bill No. 343 A, creating the town of Kimball in Iron county. Assemblyman Sommerfeld's bill providing for the incorporation of the Free Will Baptists, and another measure appropriating $5,000 for the purchase of stationery for the use of the state officers have been signed. The last bill to be signed by the governor appropriates to the county of Milwaukee $380, which was erroneously paid to the state.

The governor now has before him for consideration the Browne bill appropriating $250,000 for the state highway department. The measure provides that the money shall remain in the general fund, however, until needed by the highway department.

OLYMPIC IS REBUILT AND READY FOR SEA

World's Greatest Steamship Has Been in Dock for Four Months, Claimed to Be Safest Ship.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Belfast, March 24.—The 45,000-ton Olympic which still has distinction of being the largest steamship afloat, left today for Southampton to get ready to sail for New York a week from Wednesday. For nearly four months the giant vessel has been in drydock at Harland and Wolff's shipyard, undergoing alterations designed to make her the "safest" ship in the world. At an expense of $1,500,000 the vessel has been fitted with an inner hull to make her as far as engineering skill can, unsinkable. The original double bottom of the ship has been extended upward, to a point well above the water line, thus furnishing an interior skin of solid steel and forming a hull within a hull, so that the Olympic is now described as "two ships in one." In the opinion of the engineering experts the Olympic could now pass safely through such an accident as befell her sister ship, the ill-fated Titanic, since the effect of running on a sunken reef or submerged iceberg would be merely to rip the outer hull.

CHARGED WITH MURDER OF FARMER IN QUARREL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Harrisburg, Ill., March 24.—John Woodruff was arraigned in the circuit court here today to stand trial on an indictment charging him with the murder of George H. Muge last October. While on a hunting trip Woodruff and two companions are said to have trespassed on the grounds of Muge, who was a wealthy farmer. Muge ordered the hunters off his premises and in the quarrel that ensued Woodruff is alleged to have shot and killed the farmer.

PROPOSE A REFORM IN MARRIAGE LAWS

Persons Prohibited From Marriage in This State Shall Be Denied Right in Another State.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 24.—Believing that the marriage laws in the state of Wisconsin are too lax, the assembly committee on judiciary has introduced a new bill in the assembly providing stricter regulation. The measure provides that any person residing or intending to continue to reside in Wisconsin, who is disabled or prohibited from contracting marriage under the laws of this state, shall not be permitted to marry in another state. Under the terms of this bill such a marriage would be null and void.

There is a reciprocal clause applicable to other states, which provides that no marriage shall be contracted in this state by a party residing or intending to reside in another state, if such marriage would be void if contracted in the other state. The bill further provides that before issuing a license to marry the county clerk may require affidavits as to the residence and prospective future residence of the contracting parties. Any official issuing a license with knowledge that the parties are thus prohibited from intermarrying and any person authorized to celebrate marriage who shall knowingly celebrate such a marriage shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The punishment in that case is fixed by a fine of not to exceed $1,000, or by imprisonment for not more than one year.

Assemblyman John O'Day of Lincoln county, one of the well known democrats of the home, believes in honoring President Wilson. He has introduced a bill in the assembly dividing the town of Somers in Lincoln county so as to create the town of Wilson. Mr. O'Day says that the people of that locality desire the name Wilson to be applied to the town because of the overwhelming majority given President Wilson in the state of Wisconsin at the general election last fall.

Evidently Assemblyman Heiding of Milwaukee, an attorney of the state's metropolis, is not entirely satisfied with the treatment he is receiving in some of the Milwaukee courts. He has introduced a bill in the legislature which provides that when a party or an attorney for any party to an action in any court, is a member of the Wisconsin legislature in session, that such fact shall be sufficient cause for the adjournment or continuance of any proceeding which he has pending before the court.

WIFE OF A LABORER MAY BECOME MAYOR

Mrs. May Taylor Stands Good Chance of Being Elected at Topeka, Kansas, Primaries.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Topeka, Kas., March 24.—The municipal campaign that ended today has been the most exciting that Topeka has experienced in many years. Tomorrow the voters will engage in a primary to determine the candidates to be voted for at the coming city election. The interest of the public is confined almost wholly to the mayoralty race, in which a woman is striving to win the nomination against four candidates of the sterner sex. The woman is Mrs. May Taylor. She is the wife of a laboring man, and before her candidacy for mayor was unknown to Topeka people.

At the beginning of the campaign the politicians were inclined to treat Mrs. Taylor's candidacy as a joke. But they soon awakened to the fact that she was putting up a very serious fight and that the joke might be on them when the primary ballots were counted. Mrs. Taylor is making a strong bid for the vote of the working classes. She stands for a uniform wage and minimum work hours for all city employees. She promises to refund to the city all her salary above the minimum wage fixed for all employees. Her supporters believe she has a good chance to win.

REPORT DEATH LIST IN INDIANA STORM WILL REACH FIFTY

ENTIRE COUNTY NEAR TERRE HAUTE PROSTRATED AS RESULT OF CYCLONE EARLY THIS MORNING.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Terre Haute, Ind., March 24.—With a known death list of sixteen, reports brought by messengers on horseback from the south part of Vigo county early today indicated that the toll of a tornado which struck here late last night would be increased to fifty. It may be several days before the exact number of dead will be known and many are believed to be buried in the ruins of their homes. The property losses will probably exceed $500,000.

Wrecks Small Town.

In addition to destroying about three hundred homes in the south portion of Terre Haute, Paoli, a small town six miles south of here, was destroyed and the intervening territory devastated. The injured will number at least three hundred and many of these are in a serious condition. The hospitals are filled to their capacity.

Church As Hospital.

The bodies of Carter and his wife—the first corpses—were found under the crushed ruins of the home while the mangled body of their child was found fifteen feet away. They were carried into the Third United Brethren church which together with the Greenwood schools has been converted into a temporary hospital and given medical attention.

On Verheuse street, between Third and Fifth streets, every house was leveled with the ground. When the ambulances and automobiles which were pressed into service reached the devastated district the injured had to be carried two blocks on account of the debris.

The Root glass factory was demolished and the Cartland foundry was severely damaged. The glass plant employed 300 men and the loss is estimated at $60,000. The storm was accompanied by a severe electrical display and rain which almost equalled a cloudburst. Crossed wires and lightning started fires throughout the debris, but they were quenched by the heavy rain.

Village Destroyed.

Greencastle, Ind., March 24.—Perth, a mining town ten miles west of here, was practically wiped out by the tornado last night. Many persons were injured, but no loss of life has been reported. The property loss is estimated at $60,000.

The one death reported to the police was that of Onal Shumbe, a twenty-year-old boy who was crushed to death. His home was blown against an adjoining structure and collapsed.

Moline Girl Killed.

Sterling, Ill., March 24.—Lulu Ellison, 19 years old, of Moline, was killed last night in the storm which swept the southern part of this county. The home of her uncle Jesse Miller, near Erie, was demolished. Other members of the Miller family escaped injury.

A dam went out near Traverse City, carrying John Hawthorne, a watchman, to his death. The dam furnished power for many plants. Railroad traffic is either delayed by washouts or suspended at several places.

Damage in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, March 24.—The storm in Milwaukee did damage to the extent of $200,000. Funeral services for Dr. William Horne, who passed away at his home, 70 Park street, late Saturday morning, will be held there at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and immediately afterward at the chapel in Oak Hill cemetery, where interment will be made. The Rev. Father Henry Williams, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, will officiate.

Mr. Horne was born in Leeds, Yorkshire, England, April 6, 1821, and emigrated to the United States when a young man. He came to Chicago in 1852 and stayed there two years and then went to Niagara Falls, where he operated a stage line. Dr. Horne came to Janesville in 1860 and has resided here ever since, forty-five years of this time in the home where he passed away. His wife died last October. The name of his son, Dr. G. R. Horne of Whitewater, was incorrectly given at G. W. Horne, in the obituary mention published Saturday. One daughter, Anna, died three years ago. The other daughter, Jennie, lives in New Zealand.

James Menzies.
Funeral services for James Menzies will be held at the home in the town of Harmony at two o'clock Thursday afternoon, instead of at the earlier date previously announced. Burial will be made in the cemetery at Johnstown Center.

NO INDIGESTION, GAS OR A SOUR STOMACH

"Pape's Diapiesin" Stops Fermentation and Makes Your Upset Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—what portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt, if you are gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acid and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapiesin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapiesin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapiesin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

LECTURER ON AIR BRAKES
TO VISIT HERE ON 26th

C. M. Devine, the man employed to give instructions as to the use of air brakes, is to lecture to the railroad men here, the 26th to the 29th. He is equipped with a car and the necessary implements for demonstrating to the employees the care and use of the air brakes. It is not known where he will make his headquarters while in this city but it is thought he will lecture at the yards. Friends were urged to attend these meetings as important instructions will be given.

F. MURTAUGH ACCEPTS GOOD POSITION IN CHICAGO OFFICE

Frank Murtaugh, whose home is in Janesville, who was formerly assistant storekeeper at the yards and who was transferred to Milwaukee, has just accepted a position of responsibility in the district storekeeper's office at Chicago. His friends were glad to hear of his promotion and this position speaks well of the young man's ability.

George Whitbread, J. Smith and G. White, representatives from Janesville of the Wisconsin division safety committee, leave for Chicago, Monday where they will spend the day in conferring with the other members of the division committee. A number of Northwestern employees made an inspection trip of the city belt line and it is understood that this monthly meeting will consist of plans to remedy defects found in the city tracks.

Four of the five ore engines, which have been tied up at the yards, were sent out this morning and will be put in service in the northern part of the state.

JANESVILLE SWITCHMEN DO NOT EXPECT TO STRIKE

While the switchmen on the fifteen roads running in and out of Chicago and especially those on the belt line in Chicago, are threatening to strike unless their demands for time and a half on overtime and holidays is conceded to them and although local switchmen are nearly all members of the union that is behind the conflict, officials at the local yards do not expect any trouble. If the threatened strike takes place and the men are ordered to stop work the effect will be felt in this city. All freight service will be badly crippled. It is plainly to be seen that local employees are not entirely in sympathy with the Chicago workers. The probability is the conflict will be settled under the operation of the Erdman act which played a prominent part in the strike of the firemen on the eastern roads.

Clifton is alleged to have shot and fatally wounded Captain White in the office of the Republic Trust Company on February 20. MRS. CORNWALLIS WEST WRITES SUFFRAGE DRAMA

London, March 24.—A large party of critics, politicians and society folk are going up to Glasgow tomorrow to attend the initial performance of "The Bill." The piece is a farcical political comedy dealing with a universal suffrage bill.

SYRUP OF FIGS IS BEST FOR A CHILD

IF ITS LITTLE TONGUE IS COATED, BREATH FEVERISH, STOMACH SOUR AND BOWELS CLOGGED.

Every mother immediately realizes after giving her child delicious Syrup of Figs that this is the ideal laxative and physic for the children. Nothing else regulates the little one's stomach, liver and bowels so promptly. Besides, they dearly love its delightful fig taste.

If your child isn't feeling well; resting nicely; eating regularly and acting naturally it is a sure sign that its little insides need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or your little one has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat full of cold, tongue coated; give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours all the foul, constipated, clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move out and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics, it cannot be harmful.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and grown-ups plainly printed on the package.
Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious, lasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

Old Arthur Devlin, former member of the New York Giants, appears to have nailed down tight his job as regular third-sacker for the Boston Braves. His fielding has been good all along this spring, and his production of beautiful line throws the other day made the job his.

Frank Chance declares he is tickled to death over his new position as manager of the New York Americans. He thinks he is thus afforded an excellent opportunity to develop a team. Frank's about right. He has all the room in the league—from eighth to first place—in which to develop a ball team. Maybe he wouldn't like it if, at the close of the season, his outfit should be called the "Last Chance."

Jim Baskette, pitcher for the Cleveland Naps, comes through with a strong boost for Catcher Fred Carisch, also a member of the Naps, taken over from Toledo the latter part of last season. Baskette used to pitch to Carisch in the old Toledo days. He declares that Carisch made him a pitcher, and that Fred is one of the greatest catchers in existence.

Frank Gotch, wrestling champion of the world, simply can't stay retired. He has just signed articles to wrestle George Lurich at Kansas City, April 1. Lurich is the man who two years ago beat George Hackenschmidt prior to Gotch's victory over the Russian. It is said that Gotch will get $15,000 for breaking his retirement.

Manager Muggsy McGraw of the New York Giants has just put one over on Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics. He has secured first call on the services of Shortstop Malcolm Douglas of the University of Virginia team. Mack offered the youth $2,000 and an automobile to sign, but Muggsy went him better. Douglas is said to be a marvel for his years and experience. It will be remembered that the University of Virginia furnished Eppa Rixey, who jumped from college to the majors last season and made good from the start as pitcher for the Philadelphia National League.

The infield of the New York Yankees is commencing to assume definite form. Chance is certain to start the season at first base, Hartzell at third and Chase at second, while young and McKiff are fighting valiantly for shortstop, with Derrick in the background as a possibility should either falter. Derrick has been playing second base during the incapacity of Chase, and has done so well at it that even should he not land a regular position he will be carried as utility player.

ALUMNI AGAIN MEET A DECISIVE DEFEAT

High School Five Doubles the Score on Older Players in Game on Saturday Night.

The Janesville high school continued its undefeated record when they won from the alumni, at the pink last Saturday night, by a double score of 32 to 16. The game was played before a large crowd and was the finest exhibition of basketball seen this year. While the school players led their rivals at all stages of the game, the playing of both teams was faultless and the strong rivalry between the two teams made the playing intensive. This victory totals fourteen straight for the champion high school team.

The alumni and the students have clashed three times and every time the "Highs" have defeated the "grays" by a large margin. It was thought the alumni would give the school a close game on the big floor and with their customary style of playing under the intercollegiate rules, but the "high" players proved able to meet their opponents at any style of the game. Saturday's game was the best played at the rink this season, for the victors' excellent team work and short, snappy passes proved the downfall of the old timers. Their signals worked well and their only defect was the missing of comparatively easy baskets. During the first half, which was played under A. A. U. rules, the "highs" pulled off some fine passes and cleverly executed team work which resulted in their scoring of fourteen points while the alumni gathered 6. At this stage of the game Atwood was the star man, for his fast playing enabled him to score three goals over Langdon. Captain Falter proved a stumbling block to the alumni for his guarding was the principal reason for the low score.

The alumni played good ball but the great truth in basketball, that the passing team is sure to beat the dribbling team, was brought out clearly in this game. Both forwards were against the two best high school guards in the state, and Green and Langdon were the only alumni players to cage field goals.

The second half was played under intercollegiate ruling and the high school demonstrated that they could also play the dribbling style of the game. For Falter and Edler repeatedly carried the ball out of dangerous territory by this method. While the high school was good at dribbling the alumni was superior for the work of Green and Langdon baffled the efforts of the high school in their attempts to stop this mode of play. While the students led in the score during this half, it was plainly to be seen that they were not used to these rules. For several times they had opportunities to score but either forgot that they could shoot after a dribble or were asleep. Hemming, the crack center of the high school played fast ball this half and scored two field baskets and held his man basketless. Besides playing a commendable floor game, Edler, after playing rather a delinquent game the first half, played an exceedingly fast game the second half, which was the principal part of the high school's team work. Dalton kept up his good work and played flawless ball.

While the high school team won the game easily, they displayed no such form that would win the state championship. It was easily to be seen that they were badly in need of practice on a large floor and will have to improve in close basket shooting for at the state tournament opportunities to score from easy shots are few and far between.

BEST TEAMS PICKED FOR STATE TOURNEY

Janesville Five in Pink of Condition for Championship Series at Appleton This Week.

The state high school basketball tournament is held annually at Appleton under the auspices of Lawrence College, and eight teams are to represent different sections of the state. Teams from different sections are pitted against each other for the first game, the loser being thrown out from other contests. By elimination games the two winning teams battle for the state honors. The tournament is to be held on 27, 28 and 29 of this month, the championship game taking place on the evening of the 29th. Besides the great honor of winning state championship, the winning school is presented with a silver cup and the members of the team are given gold basketball medals. Members of the teams winning second and third places receive silver and bronze medals. Besides these prizes the team making the best appearance and displaying the cleanest manner of playing receives a banner. The winner of this prize is picked by five young lady students of the college.

The playing at this tournament is probably the best that there is between the high school teams in the west. Every team is the best in its district and every player puts forth his best efforts to land the coveted medals and honor. There is also picked an all-state team composed of the best players of the various schools.

This also is an added stimulant for steller players by the individual members of the teams. Of this year's contestants at the tournament Janesville bids fair to obtain the great honor. Of the other teams LaCrosse and Oshkosh are the strongest. Racine is also entered but dopesters predict little opposition on the part of this team. From the outlook at present time the championship is between the three mentioned teams with the odds slightly favoring the locals. Janesville has never had cause to put for their best efforts and the real strength of the team is not really known. La Crosse, from all reports, is playing a whirlwind game and has a center that will make Hemning travel a fast pace to hold his own. It is probable that Janesville and La Crosse will fight it out for the high honors.

Last year the Janesville team was represented at the tournament by one of the best teams in the history of the school, second only to this year's team, who are superior in the fact that they play together better, but the high school met defeat in their opening game by one point after a most exciting battle. Madison won the championship after the finest exhibition of playing ever seen at the Armory Hall at Appleton. Their team was composed of stars, having two stellar forwards in Lewis and Cassinick, who bid fair to make a showing for the varsity team next year. Superior won second place and Oshkosh third. In 1911 Janesville was also represented and won third place after hard fighting. During the last two years tournament, rival teams were right in their climax of strength.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY.

That President Wilson has apparently struck a popular cord with his statement relative to doing away with Dollar Diplomacy. The Wall Street Journal discusses this latest move in American foreign politics as follows:

"One of the least desirable legacies of the last administration at Washington was that squalid phrase, standing for a mean thing meanly conceived, 'dollar diplomacy.' There is another and better diplomacy, which was obvious enough to George Washington. It was that of minding our own business, and giving the other nations of the world friendly countenance and support in minding theirs. President Wilson's pronouncement on the proposed six-power loan to China disposes effectually of a policy which was about as un-American as the wit of man could devise.

"There is no embargo upon the lending of money to China, or anybody else, by our bankers. President Wilson has merely intimated that extension of political influence by the official countenance of such transactions is repugnant to his idea of the proper functions of the United States government. So far as the Chinese loan is concerned, there has been a change in the condition of the world's money market since it was undertaken; and it is revealing no secrets to say that the bankers here will breathe a sigh of relief with that responsibility removed. What China may do is another matter.

"At least this country will not strengthen its trade in China by taking part in a financial transaction which, in a contingency by no means remote, might mean armed intervention, and would in any case mean the collection of taxes by foreigners in a country which has every right to demonstrate that it can govern itself. More than thirty years ago Great Britain was placed in just such a position, and whatever the occupation of Egypt may have brought forth, its original cause was the collection of interest and principal for the holders of Egyptian United bonds. The possession of Egypt is of great importance to Britain, in view of her empire in the east. But could any such excuse be offered for ourselves.

"China must make the best she can of her own resources. If her new form of republican government is worth anything, she will be able to borrow money, without pledging her independence to Japan or Russia, although neither country is in a position to make loans at present, or likely to be for a long time to come. This obsession of borrowing seems to be afflicting every nation and every municipality, the world over. It is high time to call a halt, and the most useful experience China could possibly have, as the world's youngest republic and oldest nation, would be to live for a few years within her means."

DEATH AND DEVASTATION.

Today's dispatches tell of death and devastation following in the wake of the storms of Sunday. While reports are yet meagre it is evident that Omaha, Nebraska, has suffered from unusual weather disturbances and that several hundred are dead or badly injured and millions of dollars worth of property destroyed. Janesville, too, felt the effect of the storm during the night, which terrified many and the final results of which are not yet known. March came in like a lion and is keeping up its reputation with blizzards, cyclones and floods. Scarcely does the nation recover from one terrible storm before a second sweeps in its wake, completing the work of destruction. It is not always the persons who go down to the sea in boats that see the workings of nature but those that stay quietly at home.

SPRING ELECTION.

The election is but a week off and voters should make up their minds who to select as county judge of the probate court for the next term. It will be hard to name as efficient a court official as Judge Sale has made, but four candidates are in the field and the voter must decide for himself which is to be the next judge. It is an important office and every voter should exercise his right of franchise in making the selection.

THE RAGING ROCK.

The Rock river is today holding forth in all its pristine glory. It has risen rapidly and augmented by the storm of Sunday, the sudden melting of the snow, it is now really a raging stream and not the quiet little creek that it appears in the dry summer period.

There was another slip in the weather Sunday. It was predicted as good weather by the Washington sharps and it was anything but pleasant.

Under Roosevelt we had "shirt-sleeve diplomacy," under Taft "dollar diplomacy," and Wilson means to inaugurate a "Show me diplomacy."

Sunday's rain storms at least aided pedestrians by clearing off the snow and slush from walks and crosswalks that had not been cleaned.

The team is lookin' simply great.

Dere's nottin' to it, boys.

Our aggregation's goin' to be the one and only noise.

The pitchin' staff has got the goods.

Yes, since hope I die,

And every slinger in the bunch has got his battin' eye.

We're going to make the other seven teams look mighty tame.

And we can't figger out just how we're goin' to lose a game.

There's nottin' to the bunch at all exceptin' simply class.

They'll even win the plaudits of the feller with the pass.

Helpful Household Hints.

How to keep a cook: First, catch your cook. Then proceed noiselessly and rapidly to the office of the register of deeds and place your house and lot in your cook's name. Then buy her a six-cylinder Mercedes and a piano. Put her up as elaborate as you can on the first floor of the house. Hire for her a manicurist, a butler, several hand maidens and second-hand maidens, also an Angora poodle. Place a theater box at the cook's disposal and make your wife do the cooking. In this manner you may be able to keep your cook. Of course, extreme cases may require greater attention.

How to make a silk hat: Take one joint of stovepipe. Then catch seven or eight black cats and skin them, stretching the skins tightly about the stovepipe. Brush carefully. If the hat is too tall, use a little shortening. How to cure a bald-headed Brussels carpet: Take a pair of barber's clippers and clip the carpet all over, then shave it carefully with a safety razor so it will all look alike. It will then all grow out evenly.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.

Referee Hinks, our talented and versatile station agent for the railroad depot, said a lot of fellows got next to good tips on the stock market by tapping the telegraph wires.

Hank Timms climbed a pole next day and tapped a wire for an hour with his jackknife, but he didn't get no information. Hank Timms says Ben is a liar. Miss Amy Pringle has bought a "Gates Ajar" frame from the hothouse and expects to trim it up for a spring lunnet in the near future. Elmer Jones says he would like to own a good hothouse because a feller could stay in all the year around and keep nice and warm for netting. Since Eco Hanks has had the mumps his whiskers is too small and don't fit his face.

A feller that shoots glass ball in a Wild West show has certainly got some aim in life. Miss Amy Pringle, our milliner, says she would like to marry one of them foreign counts. If gum, she will marry a foreign one if she marries any because there ain't no other kind except New York counts and they are outer. Folks say the count Amy marries won't be no oyster. He will be a lobster. Hank Timms says Bryan is a humber when he poses as the Peerless Leader. Hank claims to be the Peerless Leader himself, as he has chewed more Peerless than any other feller in this country.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDCERTON

THE WRITING BUG.

Nearly everybody nowadays has the writing bug.

This is as it should be. There is nothing better for a man than to learn how to express himself on paper.

Not all, but a surprisingly large number of those so afflicted have a desire to see their stuff in print.

This also is as it should be. Even if they do not succeed, the attempt to write something good enough to print has its uses.

Right here I want to speak of a popular delusion. I have spoken of it before, possibly in these very "talks," but it is widely enough held to bear frequent mention.

It is the mistaken belief that editors, especially magazine editors, are in league against amateur writers.

To put it bluntly, this is so wide of the truth as to be laughable.

The fact is that editors, and especially magazine editors, are eagerly looking for new talent. They greet the discovery of a new writer of promise with almost as much enthusiasm as the prospector greets the finding of gold.

It may be that they are sometimes mistaken and overlook real "color" when they see it. This has happened not only to editors, but to book publishers. With such a mass of material to pass on it is not surprising that they should occasionally be mistaken, but if so the mistake is honest.

In such cases all the writer has to do is to keep his stuff circulating. If he sends it to enough editors and it has real merit some one of them will spot it.

This recalls the experience of a man who is now a well known short story writer. In the old days he was assistant managing editor of a newspaper syndicate. The story was told me by his managing editor, who would not consent that the writer's name be used.

Even while in the newspaper business this chap began sending out short stories. In the beginning they came back.

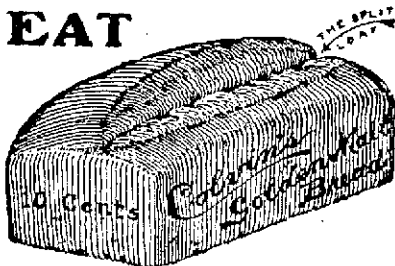

"I know what is the matter with this stuff," said his author. "It is not good enough. I will keep on till I bring it up to the mark. Then it will stick."

He kept on. He studied and worked harder than before. Finally he resigned his job, went out on a farm and devoted his whole time and attention to short story writing.

Today he is famous, with a yearly income of five figures from his pen alone, has his country home and automobile and possesses the proud privilege of turning down editors instead of being turned down by them.

He won because he had no illusions, did not spend his time wishing that somebody was in league against him and did not stop till his stuff was "good enough."

PROPOSED BOXING BOUT PREVENTED BY POLICE

As the result of the police being "tipped off" a boxing match which was to have been held at the lunch room of Sadafy Brothers Saturday night, was indefinitely postponed. Patrolman Morrissey, at the order of Chief of Police Appleby, visited the place about ten o'clock and informed the proprietors that a contest such as was anticipated would not be tolerated. It was rumored that the bout was to be between the respective prizes of Leyden and Sandy Sink. The proprietors declared that they had no intention of violating the law. Eight ounce gloves were to be used and the exhibition was merely for the purpose of advertising the sporting goods.

STORM SWEEPS CITY DOING SOME DAMAGE

TAIL OF TERRIFIC WIND AND RAIN STORM FELT IN JANESVILLE LAST NIGHT.

RIVER RISING RAPIDLY

Basements Flooded, Interurban Traffic Delayed—Trains Late, and Telephone and Telegraph Lines Suffer.

Janesville and southern Wisconsin were storm swept last night by the tail end of the terrible cyclone that wrought devastation in the west and south middle western states. Heavy sleet and wind accompanied the unusual downpour of rain which lasted the best part of the night after twelve and in consequence many cellars are flooded, the river has risen to an unusual stage and interurban, railway and telegraph and telephone service are seriously crippled.

Shed Destroyed. The downpour of rain was accompanied by a brilliant electric storm and a severe wind that did considerable damage. A tobacco shed belonging to S. B. Heddles, located within the city limits on Pleasant street was completely razed by the force of the wind and rain. The shed was a large one but was completely destroyed and the building material scattered in every direction. The shed contained twelve acres of tobacco which was also destroyed by the ravaging wind. The loss is partially covered by insurance. People who reside in the neighborhood of the wrecked building state that the wind howled in the most unbelievable manner and that the down pour of rain was unprecedented.

At Coolen Mills. Water from the river backed up to the Rock River Woolen Mills south of the Monterey dam and flooded the floors of the dye-room and boiler room to the depth of about a foot. The watchman summoned a number of the mill-workers from their beds at about four o'clock this morning to carry the endangered goods to safety or put them up out of reach of the water. Since six o'clock the water had been receding at the rate of about two inches an hour, and the mill was again in operation this afternoon though under difficulties.

Wash Out. A bad wash-out occurred in the road leading to the sugar factory near the Paul bridge, and others are said to have taken place at different places in the county, which were of an even more serious nature. Two new bridges in the town of Harmony, one on the Emerald Grove road, and one on a cross-road, were left in bad shape through the embankments being carried away.

River Rises. Rock river rose seven inches in twenty-four hours as the result of the heavy rains that fell last night and early this morning, melting and almost completely carrying away about eight inches of snow that covered the ground. The stream is overflowing its banks west of Jefferson Junction at Fort Atkinson and other points above Janesville, and the Crawford, Yahara and other tributaries are swollen, making an additional rise at this point inevitable. The present height of the river exceeds the highest mark of last year, by 2 3/4 inches, the reading of the government gauge at 10 a. m. being 26 1/2 inches. The maximum height is said to be 41 1/2 inches, reached in 1905. In 1909 the highest figure was 33 1/2 and in 1908, 33 inches.

Interurban Affected. Service on the interurban railway between this city and Beloit was suspended throughout the morning because of washouts and water covering the right-of-way. The first car to leave Janesville found two feet of water over the track between the Buob brewery and the bridge over Spring Brook which had overflowed its banks. The car was obliged to return. Another washout was discovered south of the railway crossing. Cars coming from Beloit were able to proceed as far as the sub-way where another section of track is under water. The storm did not affect the supply of power. Service was resumed at twelve o'clock.

Basements Flooded. Basements of buildings on North Main street and Milwaukee street that border on the river have their floors flooded with from one to two feet of water, making it necessary to remove promptly all goods subject to damage by immersion or dampness. The Jackman block, Hockett's bowling alley, the Woolworth store and the Kelly bakery are among the places affected by the high water. Other cellars in different parts of the city were flooded by rain and melting snow that was unable to find an outlet in the usual channels.

Very High. Late this morning the river above the upper dam was within three feet of the floor of the Fourth avenue bridge, and a few inches below the stringers of the railway bridge crossing the roadway. Practically all the boat-houses were afloat and the greater part of Goose Island was submerged. One boat-house was carried against the east end of the Fourth Avenue bridge. Others were secured to the shore with hawsers, or lay in water nearly to the eaves.

Steam Power. Steam power had to be resorted to as an auxiliary at the Janesville Electric Company's plant today because the back-water crippled the efficiency of the turbines.

Ever Works Today. The river at the upper railroad bridge was so high and swift that further work of filling the coffer dams was postponed. The diver worked all morning but did not go out of the inclosed part of the coffer dam. This affords excellent protection and the current outside was so swift that he would be unable to withstand it in spite of the heavy weights. The river has risen so rapidly that one of the coffer dams is completely submerged and the river rush passes it in whirlpools.

Water at the Dam. The upper dam presents the best example of the rapidly rising river here and the river is in a complete tumult, the water leaping at the bottom, at least fifteen feet in the air. The force of the water after leaving the dam causes two large waves which are the highest since 1905. At the apron, the river is a seething mass of foam and the numerous cross currents cause great whirlpools to form which threatened to sweep the railroad bridge below the dam. The water is half way up the pile and a person standing on it can easily feel it shake. In the races the water has crept up until it is within a foot of flooding over the embankment. Along the bank on the east side of the river is very swift and threatens to wash out the lumber piles on the platforms. A foot and a half more and the flood would do considerable damage here.

Trains Delayed. Train number 8 on the Saint Paul road again experienced difficulty at Gratio and was unable to make a through trip, because of the feet of water on the tracks. On the other divisions the track had soft spots but all other trains were able to make their destination some of them being half an hour late. On the Northwestern line the tracks were flooded in spots but trains were nearly on time. At one place six inches of mud had been washed down over the track. Places where the track was through cuts the water had cut large holes down the sides of the embankment but conditions were not as bad as expected.

Janesville People With Relatives in Omaha, Anxious to Learn Particulars.

Many calls were received at the Gazette office throughout the day asking for particulars in regard to the conditions at Omaha. Many Janesville people who have relatives living in the Nebraska metropolis were especially anxious for news, after the first flash in regard to the serious nature of the storm had been bulletined around the city by the Gazette at ten o'clock this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jamieson, formerly of Janesville, reside at South Omaha.

A telegram to the Janesville Machine company this afternoon stated that the general manager of their Omaha office, W. D. Hogg, was in a hospital and not expected to live. His wife was killed in the storm which swept the city Sunday afternoon. The dispatch is dated Sunday, March 23.

DAMP WEATHER BAD FOR EASTER FINERY

Few Women Brave Threatening Weather With Latest Creations in Bonnets.

From the standpoint of mere man, Easter was simply a gloomy Sunday, but for his female relatives it was an abomination. There were very few Janesville women who braved the threatening appearance of the dark, gray skies with the latest mode in head gear or the newest style in spring suits. Those few who were determined to make their debut at any cost were all the more conspicuous, however, and for an occasional one who ventured without an umbrella, they survived the experience in fairly good shape. But there was no parade of finery as is seen in former years. Women for the most part were attired in somber winter garb, with heavy coats and warm furs. For those who had prepared for the occasion with an elaborate outlay of finery, the dawning of such an unseasonable day was the superlative in the undesirable.

LAST REGISTRATION IS HELD TOMORROW

Citizens Who Failed to Register On Former Registration Days Have Another Opportunity.

Citizens who failed to register on March 10 and 11 will have a third and last opportunity to do so tomorrow, and thereby make it unnecessary for them to swear in their votes on election day, which comes just one week from tomorrow. A large percentage of the number who voted at the last general election, were registered at the earlier registration, but there will be plenty of work for the clerks to do if the lists are not to fall short of normal. Foreign born citizens should not neglect to bring their second papers with them as only fully qualified citizens will be permitted to vote henceforth.

"HOWE'S PICTURES"

Here's a reproduction from Lyman H. Howe's moving picture films which shows one of the thrills of a structural iron worker's life in New York City these days.

the Tower of Babel to forbidden heights. There is, however, a vast difference between the ancient and the modern undertaking. It is the difference between a great achievement and an absolute failure. The ambitions of the ancients were defeated by a "confusion of tongues," whereas our modern towers are reared ever higher and higher because of unparalleled executive ability and efficiency. Every girder fits so exactly—to the minutest fraction of an inch—in to every other girder that one might say that language is unnecessary.

At heights that would daunt the ordinary builder, the men who put the giant frameworks together walk about on the narrowest strips of iron with an "at home" feeling that is astounding and which intensifies interest in the reproduction of Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival, coming to the Myers Theatre, March 26 and 27, matinee Thursday at four.

Floor upon floor is practically pushed into the air with a rapidity and unconscious daring that prove sensational in the animal kingdom.

The Howe camera men who made the films had many interesting experiences. One of them had his apparatus perched atop of a movable derrick on a building that reached its thirtieth floor. The photographer wanted to show Broadway with its hurrying crowds that looked like flies in the distance and one of the iron workers who was being hoisted from the street.

The picture taking mechanism was recording the scene when one of the steel cables caught in the tripod, holding the man on the chain in mid-air for several minutes until he could frantically cry to his fellows on the ground to reverse the engines. The above illustration shows one of the trying moments.

"OUR WIVES."

Jos. M. Gaites has chosen what he believes to be the four most beautiful types on the American stage to support Henry Kolker in his production of "Our Wives," which comes to this city soon.

They are Pamela Gaythorne, the handsome English actress, who scored so delightful a success in the leading role of the New Theatre's production of "Nobody's Daughter"; Isabel MacGregor, the charming, Auburn-haired Scotch comedienne; Eda von Lake, well remembered in musical comedy, and Gwendolyn Piers, the vivacious Southern girl who appeared in the leading feminine role in "The Spendthrift."

Among the men in the cast are Mark Smith, who succeeded Frank McIntyre as the star of "The Travelling Salesman," William Roselle, George Graham and John Findlay, the intimate character actor. "Our Wives" is being played at the Cort Theatre, Chicago, now. The piece is a rollicking comedy of "sex" and has had notable runs abroad.

"A Few More Years."

FACTS WHICH PROVE THAT ONE CATALOGUE HOUSE MANAGER TOLD A TRUTH WHICH SHOULD BE CAREFULLY CONSIDERED.

(Copyrighted 1913, by Publishers' Service Bureau.)

An opinion based on insufficient information is not worth two dried apple tarts. A conclusion grounded in experience and a knowledge of the cold facts involved in the subject under consideration will win bets.

The Chicago mail order retailer knew what he was talking about when he said in a public address:

"Give us a few more years and we will make every city outside of Chicago a town, every town a village, every village a hamlet, and every hamlet we will wipe off the face of the earth."

All they need is "a few more years" without intelligent, organized opposition, and they will do that very thing.

Centralizing the Retail Trade.

They will monopolize the retail trade of the country and destroy the commercial and industrial prosperity of the small towns, just as centralization of trade has destroyed the small trading centers of England; just as Standard Oil has monopolized the oil trade; just as the meat, tobacco, sugar, and other trusts monopolized trade in their respective lines.

Do you doubt it? Here are some facts bearing on the subject that must be considered:

How the Business Has Grown.

One Chicago catalogue house reported that it did a business amounting to more than $10,000,000 in November, 1912.

In the Chicago Tribune's annual trade review, printed December 31, 1912, the gross business of the Chicago mail order houses is estimated at $278,000,000 for the year then closing. This amount exceeds that reported for any other line of business, either commercial or manufacturing, with one exception—the meat packing industry.

The mail order business has been developed during the last twenty-two years or since 1890.

Confirmation by Census Bureau.

Now read these facts and figures over again and get them firmly fixed in your mind. When you have done so, read the following statement from the bulletin issued by the census bureau on "Population of Cities," Page 15:

"Comparing 1890 with 1910, there has been relatively little change in the proportion of the total urban population found in cities of 25,000 to 100,000, or in those of 100,000 to 1,000,000 inhabitants, but there has been a material increase in the proportion of cities of more than 1,000,000 inhabitants and a material decrease in the proportion of cities of from 2,500 to 25,000."

It may be true that "figures make dry reading," but when a man sees his bank balance dwindling there are excellent reasons why he should give the figures more careful consideration than he devotes to the comic section of his Sunday newspaper.

Also when the figures prove that the trade of the nation is being centralized in the big cities to the substantial loss of the citizens of the small towns, inclusive of the farmers who live near those towns, those figures ought to make "mighty interesting reading," as the late Horace Greely was wont to remark.

A Chance for the "Money Trust."

Having thoroughly digested the figures and facts above set down, it is natural for the reader to ask, who will control this giant retail monopoly when it has had "a few more years" in which to develop?

The "Money Trust," of course. Recent investigations by a congressional committee disclose the fact that, by a system of interlocking directorships, 180 men practically control $25,325,000,000, invested in and handled by 134 leading companies and corporations—and every important trust is included in the list.

When these men get a "stranglehold" on the retail trade of the country, where will the small town, the small town business man, and the small town citizen—and farmer—come in?

At times, figures are not so dry, after all.

Egg Rolling at White House.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—An army of infantry today invaded the White House grounds and remained in possession while President Wilson, his family and friends stood upon the portico of the executive mansion and made no effort to conceal their admiration and enjoyment of the spectacle.

The "army" consisted of the whole juvenile population of Washington, or as much of it as could be crowded on the White House lawns, and still leave room for the egg rolling festival which for years has been a fixture on Easter Monday. From 9 o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon the youngsters frolicked around the grounds, rolling their colored eggs and playing games. They were given the absolute run of the place.

Epigram of Tallyrand. The duchess of Lauraguais, who was somewhat given to making poetry, could not think of a word to rhyme with coffee. Turning to Tallyrand, who chanced to be by her side, she said: "Prince, give me a rhyme to coffee." "Impossible, duchess," replied Tallyrand, without a moment's delay; "for that which pertains to the head of a woman has neither rhyme nor reason."

Persever Always. No talent will enable us to do any work worth while without drudgery, but no childishness must tempt us to give it up because it is hard. No work can be well done by any one who is unwilling to sacrifice ease to its accomplishment. Perseverance is not rubbing it well in; sleep in loose only the price of success, but the price of manhood also.

Remedy for Chapped Hands. Quarter of an ounce of camphor, the same of sweet oil and white wax, place together in a cup to melt until thoroughly mixed. Well wash the hands in warm water and good soap, just before going to bed, rub thoroughly dry, then apply the remedy, rubbing it well in; sleep in loose gloves with holes cut in the palms.

Princess Ibrahim Hassan, wife of a cousin of the khedive of Egypt, a California girl by birth, has returned to this country, glad to escape from her Oriental husband. He met her in England, where she was on the stage. He wooed her ardently and persistently, finally won her, and carried her to Egypt to be his bride. She was a prisoner, after the Eastern fashion. Then he took her to Paris and she made all haste to escape, despite the fact that the prince is close in line of succession to the Egyptian throne, and that she might some day take the place Cleopatra once held.

A black and white illustration of a woman in traditional Japanese attire. She is wearing a kimono with a subtle pattern and a wide, dark obi. She holds a large, dark, circular parasol over her head. Her hands are tucked into her voluminous sleeves. The figure is framed by a decorative, ornate border that resembles a stylized archway or a window frame, with floral motifs at the top and sides. The background within the frame is dark and textured.

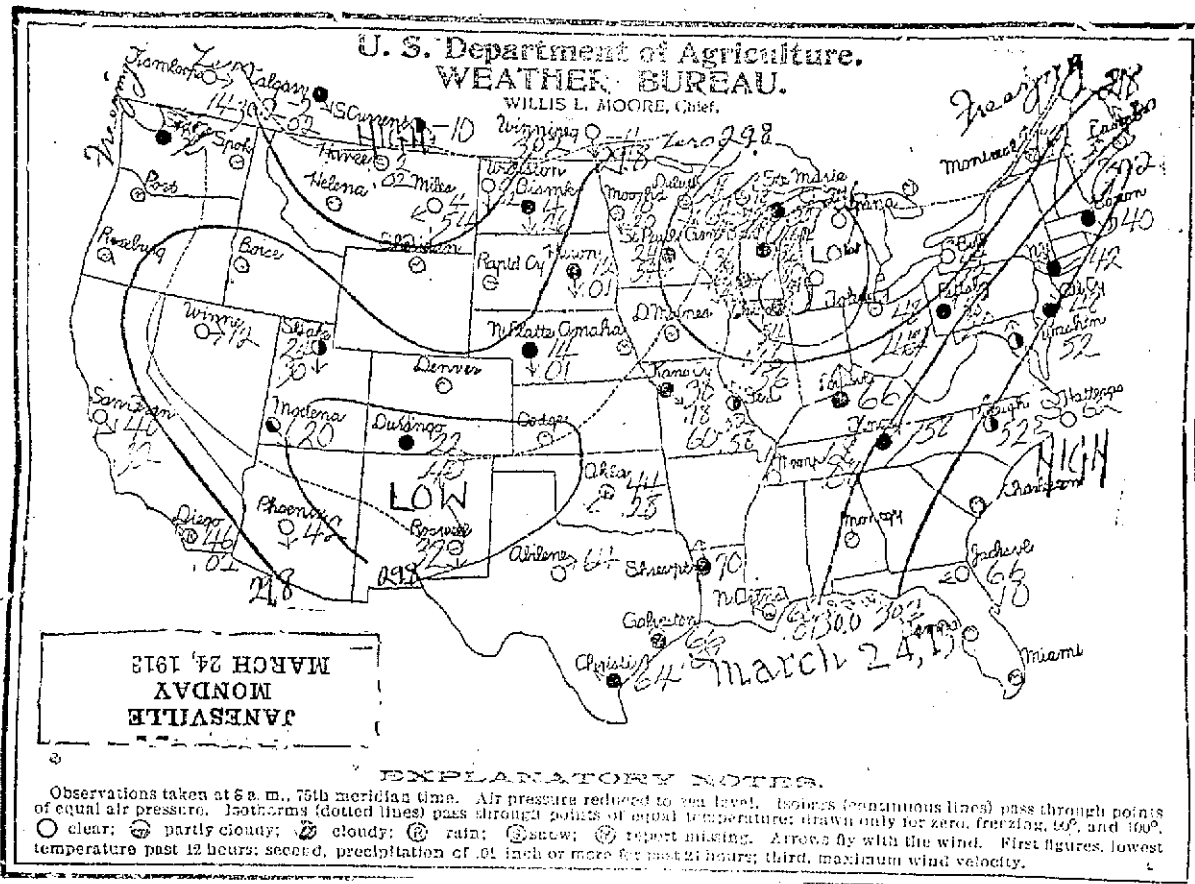

The suit shown here is one of the most attractive modes prepared by the Paris designers for spring wear. Green, the well-known modiste, has calculated that it should be made of light tan ratine with covered buttons and pipings of tissue printed in several tones.

Another area of low barometer occupies the southwest, and it is not unlikely that the disturbance just passed will be followed by another like it

An area of high barometer prevails off the south Atlantic coast and the weather is generally fair on that coast.

MADE MILLIONS IN PICTURES WITH BIG IDEA---NO MONEY

Some of us who haven't beautiful homes, who have never written checks for thousands of dollars which we could cash at the nearest bank, and haven't had our names in the newspapers or on the billboards every few months often wonder how other people manage it so well.

There's a man who brings an entertainment to this city twice each year who never had a special "pull" to get into a wide and profitable occupation.

He just went out and began a new business, with no capital but a big resolve and a fund of determination that has been increasing as rapidly as the millions of twenty-five, thirty-five and fifty-cent "admissions" have been pouring into his pocket.

Right now he says he has money enough for all the needs of his family, relatives and often friends, and is settled down to the really big work in his life—making the world smaller for Americans by bringing it to them.

This man is Lyman H. Howe, pioneer exhibitor of travel scenes in moving pictures.

Like Edison, with whom he conferred in the making of the first apparatus that projected animated views Mr. Howe has had more than a mere commercial interest in the development of moving picture reproduction.

And he's never lost sight of either part of the big idea.

He had to borrow the first few hundred dollars to build on. His savings— from a painting business disappeared in the exhibition of a miniature coal-breaker at Baltimore. People there didn't care how anthracite coal was prepared for market. Perhaps they were too much worried about the price of it. However, this didn't prevent a new world-famous man from taking a new grip on his big asset—depression. He was very homesick, without a penny in his pocket, and didn't want to cause a mother at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to think he was having a rough road to travel. In the darkest hour of his adversity he picked up a piece of card board and made a pencil sketch of the old home where one real friend was awaiting his return. This little reproduction—"drawn from memory in Baltimore, Md., February 16th, 1881"—is now encased in a handsome frame and occupies one of the prominent parts of Mr. Howe's study in his new residence in the same city where his mother received it as a message of cheerfulness and affection. On the back of the sketch one can easily find the lines which told how much he remembered every corner, crest of the "old place." That, and the first sign that proclaimed "L. H. Howe, Sign Painter" are among the most prized possessions of the noted traveler today.

In 1893, Mr. Howe went to Chicago and the World's Fair. One of the exhibits was a nickel-in-the-slot moving picture device. Most of the Fair visitors didn't see anything in it but a poor attempt at novelty, but Howe lingered about the machine for days. He wrote to Edison and soon after built the first projector that presented his Travel Festival. This machine is a great curiosity to people who now visit the Howe studios.

remarkable features to attract so many people to his Travel Festival. "The desire is always strong to visit distant lands. Travel is attractive because of a legitimate longing for that broad education which only personal study of other races, civilizations and religions can bestow. To realize history by visiting the ancient shrines of art, the homes or sepulchres of heroes, and the arenas of heroic deeds, to meet people who live differently and look differently than ourselves; these are all interesting to Americans and to other people in the world," said the exhibitor.

Dynamiting a mountain; the amazing daring of structural iron-workers on the dizzy heights of skyscrapers; overlooking Broadway, New York; a race for life by three panicle-striker; a riggers, pursued by infuriated lions; a ride through the Niagara Gorge; another through the St. Simphon tunnel connecting Italy and Switzerland; a pictorial excursion through a quaint Holland; a visit to the Milan cathedral, to La Granja—the summer residence of the Kings of Spain—and to a model American Military Academy at Culver, Indiana, showing the student life, activities, sports, etc., during his entire career from a raw recruit to graduation day; also bird studies in the exact hues of nature, and a review of the other subjects of surprising charm and interest to be presented on the forthcoming engagement at Myers' Great Meadows and 27, matinee Thursday, at 4.00 o'clock. Seats now on sale at the box office for all performances.

having strong teams after two or three years of coaching and training. Madison had the best team in her history last year and after losing their star men their team has dropped from a championship team to one that is comparatively easy to beat. Oshkosh has a heavy and fast team, being made up of members of the championship football team, having Simpson a nucleus around which their team work is built. Nothing would please the locals any better than to clash with this team for the title to gain revenge for their defeat in football.

This year's high school team is the product of three years of careful building and training. The Falters are regarded as the local champions and are equipped with players that should prove a stumbling block to the ambitious forwards of rival teams. Elder has played for three years and has been twice to the state tournament which is a powerful factor in the success of a team at the state meet for the playing there is far superior to the high school game. During the season, Falters has played three years and has played two years at Appleton and his star playing during the present season has proven him to be one of the best sticking guards in the history of the school. Both of these men should make a showing for the all-state team. Hemmings has played two seasons and has been improved in his playing a hundredfold. His wonderful record at basket shooting places him by hope, as the best center in the state, but he has not met a worthy prival in any high school player as yet. It is a well-known fact that it is not the fastest man on the team and the question is, whether he will show up as well against hard opposition, for he will surely meet it at the tournament.

Dalton and Atwood are the only one year men on the team, but both of them have had wide experience in the game and have developed wonderfully. Dalton is a fast and sure passer, getting passes off in the most difficult angle and position. Atwood, picked as the best forward at the Beloit tournament, is a fast and accurate shooter. His playing has improved greatly since the start of the season.

Taking the team individually, it is composed of star players; but what has made their large scores possible in past games is that they all play together faultlessly and present good team work for the opposing team to solve. So far, every opponent has been swamped by it and it is hoped it will stand the test at Appleton. While the high school is in excellent condition, it is plainly to be seen that they are badly in need of practice on the basketball court. They have had no chance in history to win the title and every effort is being put forth by Coach Curtis and the players to bring the honors home.

Strenuous Practice. This afternoon and tomorrow, the local high school basketball five will be given two hard practices. This will be their last chance to get up any hard work before their first tournament game Thursday at Appleton. It should be known definitely today or tomorrow just who Janesville will oppose in the first game. As far as is known now, the four strongest teams are Janesville, Oshkosh, Menomonie and Fond du Lac. The four weak teams will be Racine, Ashland,

Wausan and La Crosse. . . . Janesville will meet one of the four latter teams.

OFFICE OF COUNTY CLERK, March 24, 1913.

Notice is hereby given that a judicial and state and county superintendent of schools election is to be held in the several towns, wards and election precincts in the County of Rock, on the 1st day of April, 1913, at which the officers named herein shall be chosen. The name of the candidate for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to this office, are given opposite the title of the office and under the appropriate designation, each in its proper column.

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: A voter upon entering the polling place, and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk, which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment, and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for. If a voter wishes to vote for some of the candidates of different political parties, he should make a cross in the square of the candidate he desires to vote for, or at any place within the space in which the name is printed. If he wishes to vote for a person for certain office, he should make a cross in the square of the name in the blank space under the printed name of the candidate for the office. In voting for candidates for County Judge or Superintendent of Schools place a cross at the right of the name for whom you wish to vote, but vote for only one. The ballot should not be marked in any other manner.

If the ballot be spoiled it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter. After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth, or compartment, where he came to the inspector in charge of the ballot box hand him his ballot to be placed in the box and pass out of the voting place. A voter who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, may, at his own request, have assistance by any person marking the same, to be chosen by the voter, and if he declares that he is totally blind he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion, as to such person's disability. The party designations and candidates for the different offices are, for example, as follows:

Mark a cross (X) in the square ☐ at the right of the name of the candidate for whom you desire to vote, if it be there, or write any name that you wish to vote for in the proper place.

VICTORY OVER DEATH MESSAGE OF EASTER

REV. J. C. HAZEN TELLS OF HOPE AND ASSURANCES OF THE RESURRECTION.

SIR KNIGHTS ATTEND

Members of Janesville Commandery
No. 2 Knights Templar and of Eastern Star At Baptist Church Services.

Promise of victory over death and evil as the lesson of the resurrection bringing with it the hope, joy and assurance of immortality, was the theme dwelt upon by the Rev. Joseph Chalmers Hazen in his address at the First Baptist church Easter morning.

In spite of the gray mist which darkened the day set apart as one of the most sacred on the holy calendar, the attendance at the various Janesville churches yesterday was unusually large. The auditorium of the Baptist church was comfortably filled. The members of the Janesville Commandery, No. 2, Knights Templar, and of Janesville Chapter No. 83, order of Eastern Star, were the invited guests of the congregation.

The Rev. Hazen, in his address, said that the resurrection was the theme of the day of the resurrection when the disciples, fearful and depressed, gathered together in the room made sacred by the last supper. And Christ appeared to them with the message of "Peace," and showed his hands in testimony that he was in truth their risen Lord.

"The disciples had unwittingly shut out their Master," said Mr. Hazen. "They were afraid that the Jews might do them some bodily harm because of the removal of Jesus' body from the tomb, and they were depressed with doubt in regard to his resurrection."

"In like manner many persons today unconsciously shut out Christ from their lives. The business man, seized with an insatiable desire for wealth and power, applied himself to his work and builds up a wall of business enterprises which, without his knowing it, shuts out all consideration of Christian principles. And so a woman may in her search after social distinction build around her a barrier and unintentionally deprive herself of the comfort of true religion. In the idle rich and the over-indulged socially to be found a class of people who are lead away from Christ but who in the end pay for their neglect with bitter tears of despair. They are deprived of the joy and the hope and the assurance and the service in life which comes with the full realization of Christian teachings.

"And the Master's Easter message was 'Peace,' continued the speaker. 'Quietness, comfort, hope, joy, assurance, right, all contained in the one word spoken to the despairing disciples. In the same way this very message can fortify us against our wrongs, against our enemy, and against death.'

"Death is the common enemy of every life. It is a thing which is feared with its uncertainties and its possible dangers. But with the promise of resurrection we are fortified and strengthened. There is joy, and hope and sunshine and song in our lives in place of gloom and darkness."

ROCK PRAIRIE

Rock Prairie, March 24.—The funeral of Mr. Jas. Menzies will be at home, Thursday afternoon, March 27 at two o'clock. Mr. Menzies' death is mourned by a large number of friends and relatives. He will be missed very much in the community and in the church which was his special interest.

Miss Mary McGowan has gone to Iowa, to the home of her brother, Henry McGowan, who is quite sick.

Miss Florence McLay is home from Barron, for the Easter vacation.

Owing to the weather the reception for Mr. Love, at the parsonage last Friday evening, was not largely attended.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barless of Chicago, are visiting at the home of D. J. McLay.

Simple Remedy for Burns.

Common whitening, mixed with water to the consistency of a thick cream spread on linen, forms an excellent local application to burns and scalds. The whole burnt surface should be covered, thus excluding the action of the air. The case it affords is instantaneous, and it only requires to be kept moist by occasional sprinkling of cold water.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

At the recent meeting of Wisconsin Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F. the following poem was received from U. G. Waite of Riverside, California, who has many friends in the city outside of the order who will be glad to hear from him again. His poem is as follows:

To the Brothers of Wisconsin Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., Janesville, Wis.
Greeting:
I wish I might be with you,
On this glad reunion night;
To meet you and to greet you,
Would fill me with delight.
But the truth about the matter,
Is better understood,
When I tell you that this time of year,
The walking isn't good.

Of course, the trains are running,
With brake beams on each car,
But for such accommodations,
The distance is quite far;
The "side-door Pullmans" also,
Are going by each day,
But the ones inviting entrance,
Are headed the wrong way.

The air route isn't crowded,
There's room up there to fly,
But here is where perplexities
Seem to multiply;
For my air craft is minus
A few essential parts,
Like framework, wings, propeller,
And the wheels on which she starts.

So in placid resignation,
I sit down to pen this rhyme,
With a hope that Uncle Samuel,
Will get it there in time,
And in the hand of him who has
The program in control,
That no "long Waite" may interrupt
The calling of the roll.

And now my three link brothers,
In conclusion let me say,
That I'm proud to be one of you,
Though I'm many miles away;
For distance cuts no figure,
When a fellow's heart is right,
And in spirit I am with you,
On this anniversary night.

Yours in P. L. & T.
ULYSSES G. WAITE,
Riverside, California.

IN THE STILLY NIGHT.
There was absolutely not a living soul in the house save Simon Skitcherger. As he lay there in bed, the heavy silence seemed to drip around him. He knew beyond the shadow of a peradventure that he was alone.

"This humdity is fierce," he yawned. "I wish that window was open."

So, the window was opened.

One charming housewife has in her parlor a little cabinet with leaded glass doors, in which she keeps extra vases for flowers, photographs of friends, interesting postcards, and the keepsakes that too frequently litter the living rooms of the family. Here they are close at hand, and free from dust, while her rooms are doubly attractive because of their absence. Some such plan is practicable in every house.

Immense Auto Industry.
Few persons, however well they may be informed about the vast extent of the automobile industry, would estimate the consumption of cotton in making fabrics for motor vehicle tops and tires at anything like the true figures, which are about 1,500,000 bales.

Warning to Beer Drinkers

Read every word in this opinion. Remember it is not our statement, but the deliberate opinion of a great scientist working for perfection in beer.

Pure beer is food and tonic.

G. Beck (Bierbrauer, 1881, No. 8) finds that

"beer in light bottles deteriorates more quickly than beer in dark bottles when exposed to the direct sunlight."

His tests were continued for three weeks and proved that beer in light bottles had acquired a very disagreeable, nasty taste and flavor and was unfit for consumption.

The Brown Bottle with Schlitz is not a fad. Its use is based on scientific principles.

We have adopted every idea, every invention, every innovation that could make for purity.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE.

(By Howard L. Rana.)

ACCIDENT insurance is a form of protection which enables a policy holder to trade off a cold in the head for a weekly indemnity. If the cold develops into pneumonia, the owner can cash it in for enough to pay the doctor's bill and buy a second-hand touring car.

Accident insurance would never have a thought of it if it had not been for the back-firing of a corn shredder. The man who invented this device filled it so full of cogs and gears that the only safe way to operate it is to employ a fearless hired man who lost both arms in early youth. It was soon found that the corn shredder shredded more operators than it did corn, and this caused accident insurance companies to spring up and provide meat tickets for people who leaned on the machine while it was consuming its frugal lunch.

Most people never take out any accident insurance until they have been kicked off the rear platform of a freight caroose by an enthusiastic coupling and had several of their ribs unpinched. They are then insured at once and go through life without anything that looks like an accident except a lucid interval.

Accident insurance can be made a highly profitable form of investment by contributing a stomach ache as total disability. Some men who appear to be in a robust state of health become perfectly helpless within thirty minutes after receiving an accident policy, and are unable to perform any kind of manual labor except playing croquet. Others manage to sprain an ankle about once every four weeks, which enables them to tap the company with great regularity.

Traveling men carry accident insurance so that they can leave something besides their grip and a spotted name. Once in a while a traveling man will be fortunate enough to fall out of an upper berth and carry home a set of dark blue contusions and a free-will offering of $25 per week, which enables him to become a drummer on the road.

Because his house is cheap, would rant if in a palace he could have a fre-

DISCONTENT ed and rapid voter who throws a frequent fit because his neighbors motor while he must hit the grit, would have as many worries, his soul would wear its scars, if he had seven surveys and twenty motor cars. The man who earns his living by toiling in the ditch, whose heart is unbending toward the idle rich, who hates his lot so humble, his meal of bread and cheese, would go ahead and grumble on downy beds of ease. Contentment is a jewel that some wear in the breast, and life cannot be cruel so long as it's possessed! This gem makes all things proper, the owner smiles and sings; it may adorn a pauper, and be denied to kings.

The man who's discontented, whose temper's always frayed, who keeps his shanty scented with words that are decayed, would do as much complaining if all the gods on high upon his head were raining ambrosia, gold and pie. The man who busts his gal-

Their Easy Action

Rexall Orderlies are a common-sense remedy for bowel disorders. Easy in action, they do not purge, gripe, nauseate or cause excessive looseness.

They tend to tone and strengthen the delicate intestinal nerves and muscles, promptly relieve constipation and help to overcome its cause and make its recurrence improbable. In these things they differ from old-fashioned, harsh, disagreeable physic, which usually gives only temporary relief and often leaves the bowels in worse condition than ever.

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for delicate and aged persons and for children. In vest-pocket size tin boxes, 12 tablets, 10¢; 36 tablets, 25¢; 50 tablets, 50¢. Usual dose one tablet.

"Do you mean that we ought to go back to Baltimore?" asked Belle Boyd energetically.

"Well, you see, ladies, you are in the difficult position of southerners sent south. The present policy of the government is to send all southerners below the line to stay, but they must be well vouched for. I am only explaining the situation to you. I can't very well send you back without authority. Perhaps the best thing for you to do is to hold out at the hotel until I can telegraph to General Fisher. My orders will notify you as soon as I hear from him.

"We will go back and wait," said Gertrude's companion determinedly.

They noticed among the groups thronging the tavern a half dozen gray coated Confederates who had been captured the day before. One of these, evidently an officer, paced restlessly up and down the room, while the guard kept an eye on him. He peered closely at the two girls as he passed them and they returned his gaze with interest. Gertrude was wondering if she had not seen that face somewhere before, when suddenly, without stopping or turning his head, the man dropped these words in a stage whisper:

"Are you going south?"

"Yes," answered Belle Boyd like a flash.

At the next turn he muttered:

"Take a word?"

Another affirmative.

"Get message to General Johnston at Richmond," across the room again—"that you saw Captain Thornton here a prisoner."

Captain Thornton! Then it was he—Edward Thornton, Gertrude's Charleston acquaintance of a year ago last spring.

"What shall you do?" she whispered Belle Boyd.

"That will depend on what they are going to do with us here," was the non-chalant reply. "I know this officer. He is an important man. If I can help him out I shall do so."

CHAPTER VI.

Shenandoah's Daughter.

PRESENTLY an orderly came in with a telegram from General Fisher to General Kelly. Its purport was that the ladies had been sent south at their own request, and no further intervention would be practicable.

"A pretty night we're in," exclaimed Gertrude, more loudly than she was return north, and we can't remain here."

"I'll tell you how you can get sent on," said one of the Federal guard. "You get holler for Jeff Davis, and you'll get sent on quick enough."

"Hurrah for the Confederate flag!" cried Belle Boyd in shrill, sheer bravado.

Then, as nobody came in response, she left the way back to General Kelly's office.

"It was just as I feared, ladies," said that officer gallantly. "Now, the only thing I can suggest is that maybe you would be willing to take the oath of allegiance. That would simplify matters. What do you say?"

They said nothing, but followed the general into an adjoining room, where a couple of staff officers sat at a writing desk. Federal soldiers were lounging all about, smoking and noise making. A man at the desk started to read the oath aloud. Before he had finished the first sentence Belle Boyd cried out:

"Great saints! It's the 'Ironclad'!"

"We won't listen to it!" declared Gertrude promptly.

With that the two turned and marched out of the room. A loud roar of laughter went up, in which General Kelly joined.

"Just as I expected," said he. "I thought you were game."

"Now, what next, general?" asked Belle Boyd cheerily.

"If we must be hung, please notify us," added Gertrude.

"Another alternative presents itself," the general went on, seriously enough.

companionship and the confidence you inspire in me—Mrs. Smith."

Here General Kelly's orderly came to announce that an ambulance would be ready to take the ladies at day-break, and would they mind sharing their room for the night with a lady and her three children on their way to Charleston?

The remainder of Gertrude's journey was comparatively uneventful, though it did seem odd at one point to have the Federal cavalrymen who escorted the ambulance called into requisition to protect her against southern stragglers as they neared the lines. She was still nominally a Federal prisoner. Nearing Winchester, a sentry demanded the young lady's papers.

"I have no papers and need none," she answered. "I am at home now. I am Miss Ellingham, and I am going to Belle Bosquet. My brother is in General Jackson's First brigade."

The Federal captain who had escorted her opened his eyes at this and said: "I am sorry to release you, Miss What's-your-name. You might have more chance for enjoyment if you were to remain north. I mean," he added, catching a dangerous gleam in Gertrude's eye, "that you must hush it dull in the south, with no beaux nor nothing."

"Our beaux are in the field, where they belong, sir," retorted the girl laughingly.

The captain bowed gallantly and made his adieu. Then Gertrude asked the gray garbed sentry where General Jackson's army was located at the moment.

"Lawd bless you, miss, nobody knows. He might be in Richmond by now or he might be in Washington. They do say as how a letter come along once address to 'General Jackson, Somewhere' and he got it at Woodstock. But that was 'way back two weeks ago."

Mrs. Haverill, the colonel's wife, had an anxious and busy time of it in Washington. Seeing little of her husband and that little at moments when he was overworked and morose, she found congenial distraction in the companionship of Edith Haverill, Frank's wife, for what the fugitive had told Kerchival West at Charleston was confirmed when the elder Mrs. Haverill went to New York and found the unfortunate young woman suffering in silence, full of loyalty, courage and gratitude, but in reality knowing no more about Frank's whereabouts than any one else did.

At the warm insistence of the Haverills, Edith came on to Washington and took up her home with them. There her baby boy was born and they christened him after his father, so that the name of Frank Haverill should still be familiarly spoken in the household.

Then the two women, like so many others both of gentle birth and of lowly station, but above all sisters in affliction, engaged in the work of ministering to the sick and wounded soldiers who filled the wards of the improvised hospitals in the patent office building and elsewhere.

At irregular intervals during the year Edith had received sums of money from an anonymous source, carefully concealed, but somewhere in the army. She knew it was from her husband, but the only time any word accompanied the envoy was shortly after the birth of her baby, when a brief loving message filled the young mother's heart with joy and gratitude.

This communication afforded no tangible clue as to the writer's whereabouts, but it was the means of setting on foot a systematic search on the part of Colonel Haverill, who beneath the mask of Spartan indifference had in reality rejoiced at hearing of his son's resolution to make atonement by enlisting as a soldier, as reported by Kerchival West after the farewell secret interview at Charleston a year ago.

Knowing that Columbia college, New York city, had furnished a large number of recruits to the local volunteer regiments at the first call of President Lincoln, Colonel Haverill directed his inquiries among such of Frank's former classmates as he could locate in the army. He was successful to the extent of ascertaining that his son had taken special pains, in enlisting, to avoid any possible comradeship with those who knew of his disgrace. Under an assumed name he had in all probability gone south and joined the Union army of the Missouri.

"It comes to very well as a disguise, then," laughed Belle Boyd, "for Captain Thornton is in the secret service. He is a comrade of mine, and I am going to help him. This meeting has changed my plans, so you won't mind going on alone from Berryville, will you, dear? I mean Miss Page."

"Yes, you know him?"

"The Edward Thornton whom I knew in Charleston did not have that horrid scar on his face."

"With sinking heart Colonel Haverill thought of the unknown dead of the great battle of Shiloh, on the far Tennessee. And then, remembering that all evidences of his son's existence in so far as the anxious young wife and mother in Washington were concerned, had ceased some months back, he only shook his head when Edith and Mrs. Haverill asked him daily if he had learned any tidings.

The colonel and his wife were none the less fond of their southern wards. Gertrude and Robert Ellingham, now that of necessity they no longer stood toward them in loco parentis.

Whatever stern military aloofness the Federal military officer may have felt obligatory upon him was compensated by a new tenderness on the part of Mrs. Haverill, particularly toward Gertrude, whom she regarded as the innocent victim of a most unfortunate political misunderstanding. This feeling Gertrude reciprocated and equally without a suspicion of resentment.

Mrs. Haverill and Gertrude, as has been intimated, maintained a practically continuous correspondence. Gertrude wrote regularly to her Confederate brother, Robert Ellingham. Madeleine West, on the other side of the Mason and Dixon line, also wrote to Robert, her "rebel" sweetheart. In a nonpartisan way, which also was quite different from sisterly. Of course, Bob wrote to both the girls, and it would have been highly embarrassing if he had ever got the epistles mixed. Madeleine answered the copious letters and inquiries of her brother, Kerchival West, as best she could.

Jenny Buckthorn was heard to remark that Captain Heartsease's pen was mightier than his sword, so there must have been some epistolary interchange between these two also when the captain was away from Washington. As for General Buckthorn, still at home slowly recovering from his wound, and Colonel Haverill, preoccupied with active military responsibilities, these two old soldiers stuck doggedly to their respective duties and kept their own counsel.

Such was the complicated, unorganized system of "grapevine telegraph," which in civil war time practically did the service of what in latter days would be called the wireless.

Dinner Stories

Way down in Florida two darkies were discussing as to the color of certain Biblical personages. One of them asserted that, as Palestine was about in a line with Africa, the people must all have been colored.

"Lor' bress you," heart, said the speaker, "St. Peter an' St. Paul and the rest of the apostles was as white as that north'n gent'man ober dere."

"No, sah!" said the man in opposition. "Paul may ha' been, but St. Peter—no, sah! St. Peter was a cold gent'man."

"You're wrong, for if St. Peter'd been cold'd rock wouldn't ha' crowed more'n one."

"Oh, mother," sobbed the young wife, "John doesn't trust me!"

"Why, my child, what has he done?"

"Well, you know, I cooked my first dinner for him today, and he

When you feel that your liver and bowels need help take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Substitute for Calomel. Calomel is effective, but dangerous—causing bad after-effects.

Olive Tablets are especially made to take the place of Calomel. Dr. Edwards for years has been Calomel's foe. He saw its dangers and its disadvantages in 17 years' practice, treating patients for all kinds of liver and bowel complaints. In his efforts to do without Calomel he developed his now famous little olive-oil-coated tablets. Olive Tablets are mild but effective. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take but undraining in results.

Olive Tablets oil the bowels just enough to start Nature's own action, and they tone up the liver at the same time. They are made from a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

If you want to regain that feeling of joyous buoyancy and clear thought, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They work like a vacation. 10 and 25 cents per box.

The case had reached a critical stage. Even the judge seemed to awaken to a live interest in the proceedings, for the most important witness was about to be cross-examined.

"Yes, sir."

"And where were you at 7 o'clock on the evening in question?"

"I was dressing my lady's hair, sir."

The lawyer leaped forward and spoke slowly and impressively.

"Now, think," he said, "I want you to be very careful in answering this question. Was or was not your mistress in the room at the time?"

CHEERFUL NEWS

For Feeble Old People.

As one grows old the waste of the system becomes more rapid than repair, the organs act more slowly and less effectually than in youth, the circulation is poor, the blood thin and digestion weak.

Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil is the ideal strengthener and body-builder for old folks, for it contains the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissues and replace weakness with strength. Vinol also fortifies the system against colds and thus prevents pneumonia.

A grand niece of Alexander Hamilton over eighty years of age, once remarked: "Vinol is a god-send to old people. Thanks to Vinol I have a hearty appetite, sleep soundly, feel active and well. It is the finest tonic and strength creator I have ever used."

If Vinol fails to build up the feeble old people, and create strength we will return your money. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

Is Your Property On the Market?

I mean, is it really ON THE MARKET? It may be for sale; and it may be listed in one or more real estate dealers hands but that doesn't mean that it is ON THE MARKET.

The only way to put a piece of property on the market is to call the attention of your market to the fact that it is for sale.

What is Your Market?

Every resident of Rock County may be considered a possible buyer for your property. Do all these know it is for sale? If not, why not?

The Gazette Classified page reaches 90% of the homes of the county daily. These homes are your market. If your property has not been placed before all these people call 77 two rings today and tell them of it at once.
